Imperial to Lead Panel Discussion at the Operational Excellence in Clinical Trials Summit

GRAND RAPIDS, Michigan, September 12, 2023—Imperial Clinical Research Services will attend the 7th Annual Operational Excellence in Clinical Trials Summit and also lead an important interactive panel discussion regarding delayed study starts. The summit takes place in Toronto on September 20 and 21.

Hope Cullen, director of project operations at Imperial, is panel leader for “Secrets to On-time Study Starts,” in which panelists will explore tricks of the trade used to optimize potential for on-time study starts. The discussion will also explore issues the panelists have seen that cause delays and how they worked to mitigate them.

Challenges planned for the discussion include:

- Site and vendor contracts
- System installs
- Training (systems, protocol/study procedures)
- Investigational product and ancillary supplies
- Documentation and materials

The session will take place on Wednesday, September 20, at 2:10 p.m./1410 hours.
