The Imperial Advantage

A SINGLE WORKSTREAM

From design, content creation, layout, and translations to print and digital production, supplies and equipment procurement, warehousing, and global fulfillment, Imperial's capabilities are end-to-end. Benefit from the advantages of using our single workstream.

- Whether your study needs printing alone or our other best-in-class support services, our subject matter experts are here to help.
- We can replace the services of 5 or more vendors, which allows for simplicity, control, consistency, and transparency, plus superior quality, shorter timelines, and lower overall costs.
- Our proprietary 24/7 portal gives you control and convenience for file uploads, proof review and approval, inventory management, releases, shipment tracking, and reporting. It also allows you to track your study inventory, expiration dates, and delivery details and decide when and where to send your items.
- Our services are available to support your study à la carte or as a full turnkey experience.
- We provide state-of-the-art preproduction file readiness and management.
- Our full bindery and finishing departments deliver solutions for your print projects to function and look their best.

Other Imperial Services

Ancillary Supplies and Equipment – We do more than procure – our team manages expiry, technology programming, repackaging, and all related activities to maximize protocol compliance. Working hand in hand with your teams, we research the most effective in-country solutions.

Patient Engagement – We provide evidence-based global support services for subject recruitment and retention, based on decades of experience. Our award-winning creative services, messaging, and solutions are proven to raise study awareness and capture the patient's, caregiver's, and referrer's attention, inspiring them to join or refer for a clinical study, as well as keeping participants interested and engaged.
